

16PF[®] Qualifying Programme

About the 16PF[®] instrument

One of the world's leading selection questionnaires

The 16PF[®] instrument is a robust measure of personality traits. It was developed by Raymond Cattell in 1949 and is available in UK English and many other languages. The current fifth edition is one of the most valid predictors of human behaviour and based on over 50 years of research and testing.

The questionnaire assesses an individual's personality against 16 personality factors. This provides a valid and accurate predictor of future behaviour, and is ideally suited for selection, development, executive coaching and teambuilding. The instrument is suitable for employees at all levels, including board level.

Part Two: 1 day

Locations

Oxford, Dublin, London

Also available in other European countries – please see www.opp.eu.com for details. Also available as an in-house programme for organisations with several delegates (see below).

Programme outline

The programme uses a variety of learning methods, including interactive exercises, group work, presentations and real-life practice sessions that are observed by experienced 16PF professionals.

Some pre-work is required, including completing the 16PF personality questionnaire and receiving feedback from an experienced 16PF practitioner.

Delegates must successfully complete the practical assessments, demonstrate their competence through fieldwork and attend Part Two of the workshop to gain the 16PF qualification.

The programme covers the following areas:

Part One

- Understanding personality theory and assessment
- Background to the instrument and introduction to the scales
- Administration, scoring and understanding profiles
- Interpretation and feedback skills
- Ethical use of the instrument

Part Two

- Review of fieldwork
- Practice in interpreting the profiles
- Business applications of the instrument

Benefits for you and your organisation

On completion of this programme, you will:

- become a qualified practitioner of the 16PF instrument, allowing you to purchase and administer the questionnaire, access a range of professional reports, interpret the results and conduct feedback sessions with clients
- be able to apply your knowledge of the 16PF instrument to deal with a range of situations, including assessment and development
- be able to integrate the 16PF instrument into HR practices, using the instrument within talent management, succession planning and management development programmes.
